California LLCs and nonprofits will file every two years. Are there consequences for not filing my California Statement of Information? The state of California will give you a 60-day grace period before charging you a $250 late fee. If you continue to be delinquent, your business may be administratively dissolved. How long does it take to process a California Statement of Information? Online filings are typically processed within 2-3 business days. In-person or mailed submissions take a bit longer - 1 to 2 weeks. Who can file a California Statement of Information? Nope, you can provide copies of original documents and signatures. Where can I get more information about the State of California Statement of Information filing? California Secretary of State - Business Entities 1500 11th Street Sacramento, CA 95814 T: (916) 657-5448 Hire Us To File Your California Statement of Information The Secretary of State's office has been advised that solicitation letters are being sent to California businesses encouraging them to comply with their California Corporations Code filing obligations by submitting fees and documents to a third party rather than by filing directly with the Secretary of State's office. The solicitations request that a fee and a completed form be submitted in order for the business to comply with applicable California or other law. The solicitations tend to have one or more of the following characteristics: Appear similar to a Secretary of State Statement of Information form; Contain an official-looking seal; Quote a specific statute or other law on the form to be filled out and returned; Imply that failing to return the form and pay the requested fee may place the entity in legal jeopardy, or might cause the entity's filings with the California Secretary of State to be in default or noncompliant status; Contain a reference to a "file number," "Corp Number," "Corporation Number," or "Control Number" that does not match the number assigned to the entity by the California Secretary of State; Reference or quote Corporations Code sections inapplicable to the type of entity being solicited, such as Code sections applicable to corporations when soliciting a limited liability company; Reference an "annual fee" or "annual payment" rather than a filing fee and that is in excess of the filing fee for a Statement of Information; Provide an estimated processing time for "minutes" to be prepared and mailed to the entity; Indicate the submitted information will be treated as private and confidential. These solicitations are not being made by the California Secretary of State's office and are not being made by or on behalf of any governmental entity. Although a business entity can use an intermediary to submit filings and fees to our office, no business is required to go through another company in order to file its documents with the Secretary of State's office. Statements of Information may be filed online at bizfileOnline.sos.ca.gov. The fee to file the statement is $25 for California stock and foreign corporations, and $20 for California nonprofit corporations and all limited liability companies. Please note that submitting the fees and filings required by the California Corporations Code to a third party for filing with the Secretary of State, does not meet the business entity's statutory obligation to file a Statement of Information with the Secretary of State. Also, please note that each business entity is required to keep records, books and minutes of its proceedings, however, these items are not filed with the Secretary of State. Action for Fraudulent Letters California businesses that receive one of these fraudulent solicitation letters can mail a written complaint along with the entire solicitation (including the solicitation letter, the outer and return envelopes, and all related documents) to the California Attorney General's office, Public Inquiry Unit, P.O. Box 944255, Sacramento, California 94244-2550. A complaint form, which can be completed online and printed to mail, is available on the California Attorney General's website. In California a business's annual report is called the Statement of Information. It's a required filing that keeps the state updated with information about participants in the company. It must be filed on time, and the penalty for being late is hefty: $250, versus the filing fee of up to $25. WHEN TO FILE Corporations must file with the California Secretary of State every year, and Limited Liability Companies (LLC) and certain other organizations every two years. Newly formed or registered companies must file their first Statement of Information within 90 days of forming or first registering their company with the state. Thereafter, the annual or biennial due date is the last day of the calendar month in which you formed or registered your business entity. The filing period is a six-month window. You can file anytime within that month or in the five calendar months preceding that month. If you file an early Statement of Information, in the six or eighteen months before your routine filing period, there is no filing fee. WHO MUST FILE The Statement of Information must be filed by companies from other states (foreign) that register to do business in California as well as California companies (domestic). Companies are required to file the Statement of Information regardless of if they've actively conducted business or not. WHAT'S IN THE STATEMENT OF INFORMATION The Statement of Information contains information regarding the registered agent for the company, the principal officers and incumbent directors, along with other details of the organization. There is a separate amendment process to change the name and some other details of your company, but you must use a Statement of Information to change your registered agent. If the State of California wants to serve you with legal notification, it will use the latest Statement of Information records to know where to find your registered agent. FILING WITH THE CALIFORNIA SECRETARY OF STATE Receipt of the filing by the Secretary's office constitutes filing, and if sent by mail, certified mail with a return receipt request is recommended if you require proof of submittal. You can also file online directly through the California Secretary of State website. You can find all necessary forms and instructions to file it yourself here. By: Doug Bend A Statement Of Information provides information about your legal entity to the California Secretary of State's Office. For example, it includes who are the officers of your corporation or if there is a Manager for your LLC. Legal entities are required to file their first Statement of Information within 90 days of registering with the California Secretary of State's Office. Corporations are then required to file a Statement of Information each year thereafter beginning five months before and through the end of their registration anniversary. When you form a business entity in California, you are required to file a Statement of Information within 90 days of submitting your formation filing. After your Initial Statement of Information filing, you are required to file subsequent updates either annually or bi-annually, depending on your entity type.
